When the Gaj'lanian Seedling ships began their genetic experiment on earth during the Cretaceous Period a group of the Xyhidrion's servitor race took some samples of the native fauna of earth during this period and began experimenting with them on their secret underground base in Europa, the sixth moon of Jupiter.

When the Gaj'lanian were driven from the solar system by the Otherworlders, the godling armies did not discover the base in Europa, and the Gaj'lanian experiments continued unrestricted. The genetically manipulated descendants of the dinosaurs of earth eventually became a new sentient race, the Reptiliars. The Reptiliars in turn served their creators for centuries.

Rehuzzarr was a special Reptiliar, the result of a lengthy experiment by the Gaj'lanian to create a champion that could face the Otherworlders, but Rehuzzarr had other plans. He led a revolt against the Gaj'lanian, who in turn destroyed the Reptiliar population in Europa.

Rehuzzarr survived and in his defeat he concocted a new plan, he would return to the birthplace of his people and reclaim his birthright. As the last survivor of his people he came to earth to destroy the human race and make reptiles the true rulers of earth as it should have been. He believes the experiments by the Gaj'lanian altered the natural evolution of earth and is convinced his people would have evolved naturally on Earth.

His attempts at genetically manipulating reptiles, mass extermination and repeated attempts at taking over Earth have brought him into direct conflict with many superheroes; to them he has become known as Dr. Rex the Reptiliar Mastermind!
